About This Game

Description

Infinitely up 2 - this is the second part of the physical puzzle, where you need to build a tower of randomly drawn shapes. The higher your tower the more points you get. The difficulty is that the pieces are physical and can fall down, then you lose and you need to start over. Try to figure out in advance how the figures will behave, just use ingenuity to more conveniently place the figures. Can you build the highest tower?

Features:

- Simple and addictive gameplay

- Pretty picture

- Pleasant music

- A variety of shapes

Simple and fun game you can play to pass some time. :)

...

by the way, why does this game have 5 versions of it with the same exact gameplay?

...

and an even better question. Why did I end up buying version number 2 of the game, when it was more expensive than the first one? :O

...

Haha jk, it's barely any difference in price and definitely worth the money anyways. :D. 0.5$ i like it. It's a fun little game that, when you're bored, can play and hope to achieve a new high score by stacking blocks. Personally, it's well worth my $0.50.
